Re: Donation to Cherish Women's Cancer Foundation.

I have been a photographer for 28 years. My creation of the teal butterfly image was born from my passion for spreading awareness among women about Ovarian Cancer and its signs and symptoms while also highlighting the importance of research. I spent the year of 2014 sick, tired and in mental turmoil. I didn't know until very late that year, that I had tumours growing on my ovaries. I didn't know the symptoms of OC, or any other Gynaecological Cancers. In hindsight I wish I had that knowledge.

To me, the Teal Butterfly image represents so much. The teal colour representing OC. The butterfly, the beautiful and courageous souls lost to the disease who are now free. Above all, it speaks 'Hope'. Hope for women who will be diagnosed in the future. Hope that something wonderful will happen from the continued growth, wisdom, and development that research into gynaecological cancers brings.
